SATURDAY EVENING, DEC'R. 28.

GEO. ELIOT AND GEORGE HENRY LEWES .-Since the death of George Henry Lewes, many of the newspapers have been clumsily discussing his relation to George Eliot, whose genius and literary labors have entirely overshadowed his fame and his works, deserving as they are. The press generally speaks of her as his wife, which she was spiritually, though not legally, owing to circumstances that could not be controlled.

The wife of the author cloped from him many years ago; but, having repented of her CHRISTMAS GOODS folly, and wishing to return to him, he were folly, and wishing to return to him, he very generously restored her to his heart and home. She proved to be incurably incorstant. She left him a second time, and he soon after met Geo. Eliot, between whom and himself sprang up a strong friendebip, based upon pertect mental sympathy and community of taste. They would have married, but they could not do so, insemuch as, having once condoned his wife's office, the laws of Great Britain were not capable of granting him a divorce. He could not marry again until his late wite's death, and she, unfortunately, showed every symptom of Such conditions naturally produced a di lemma. After long deliberation and consultation with common friends, among them some of the best minds of Europe, they desided to dwell under the same roof, disregarding con-ventionality for the sake of mutual assistance and mental growth, a course in which their friends, it is said, fully sustained them.

George Eliot has been called and known for years as Mrs. Lewes, and will so continue to be called and known, albeit the fermer wife still lives, and bids fair to survive the gifted novel ist, who is nearly 60, and has long been in very [From the Scientific American, Rov. 16, 1878] delicate bealth.

The Deleterious Use of Alum in Bread and Baking Powders.

BY HENRY A. MOTT, JR., PH.D., E. M.

Out of the many baking powders I have examined, I have selected the more prominent amined, I have selected the more prominent ones that are adulterated, giving in each case a quantitative analysis of the same. The following analyses are of "Dooley's Standard Baking Powder," "Oharm Baking Powder," and the baking powder manufactured by C. E. Andrews & Co., of Milwaukee. The analysis of the last three baking powders given in the first column was made by Professor Robert W. Schedier.
